👋 Welcome to Premium

Congratulations on investing in your e-commerce copywriting mastery.

This is not your typical AI prompt pack. While most prompt packs give you basic fill-in-the-blank templates, the Premium E-Commerce Pack teaches you advanced prompting techniques that produce professional-grade outputs.

What You'll Learn

Over the next 30 days (or at your own pace), you'll master:

- Chain-of-Thought Reasoning (making AI think strategically)
- Jobs-to-be-Done Framework (understanding customer psychology)
- Multi-Phase Task Decomposition (breaking complex tasks into steps)
- Self-Critique Loops (built-in quality assurance)
- 11 more advanced techniques

Why These Techniques Matter

Basic prompts: "Write a product description for [product]"
Result: Generic, feature-focused copy

Premium prompts: "First, analyze the customer's emotional and functional jobs-to-be-done. Then create a description that leads with transformation, not features. Finally, critique and refine your work."
Result: Strategic, conversion-optimized copy that sells

The difference? Strategy + execution instead of just execution.

How to Use This Pack

Beginner Path:

- Week 1: Focus on Section 1-2 (Products & Emails)
- Week 2: Add Section 3-4 (Ads & Pages)
- Week 3: Master Section 5-6 (Customer Experience & Promos)

- Week 4: Explore Premium-Only Section 7-9

Advanced Path:

- Start with Section 7 (Strategic Analysis)
- Apply those frameworks to Sections 1-6
- Use Frameworks (Part 5) for complete campaigns
- Study Case Studies for real examples

Your 30-Day Mastery Roadmap

Days 1-7: Foundation

- Focus on understanding the multi-phase structure
- Practice with your actual products

Days 8-14: Expansion

- Add Sections 4-6 to your toolkit
- Start combining prompts (e.g., product description + ad copy)
- Experiment with optional inputs

Days 15-21: Strategic Depth

- ✓ Success criteria (how to evaluate output quality)
- ✓ Optimization guidelines (how to improve results)
- ✓ Quality checklist (ensure professional standards)
- ✓ Related prompts (build complete systems)

Time Investment

These prompts typically take: 15-20 minutes → Exceptional results

The extra time compared to basic prompts delivers:

- More strategic thinking
- Higher conversion rates
- Better differentiation
- Professional polish
- Fewer revisions needed

Getting Started in 5 Minutes

Step 1: Choose Your Prompt

Browse the Table of Contents and select the prompt that matches what you need to create. Each prompt is numbered and categorized for easy finding.

Step 2: Copy the Complete Prompt

Find the prompt in the document. Look for the "START COPYING HERE" marker. Select and copy everything from START to STOP markers. This is the complete prompt you'll use.

Step 3: Gather Your Information

Look at the INPUTS section of the prompt you copied. Collect all the required information before you start. Optional inputs enhance the output but aren't necessary.

Step 4: Fill in the Brackets

In your AI tool (ChatGPT, Claude, etc.), paste the prompt. Replace everything in [brackets] with your specific information. Be as detailed as possible—better inputs create better outputs.

Step 5: Run and Review

Hit enter and wait for the AI to complete all phases. The AI will provide professional copy. Review it, make any adjustments to match your brand voice perfectly, and use it in your store.

How to Copy Prompts from This Document

🎯 IMPORTANT: What to Copy

Each prompt has clear markers showing exactly what to copy:

Look for these lines:

```
═══════════════════════════════════════════════════════
👉 START COPYING HERE
═══════════════════════════════════════════════════════
```

And ends with:

```
═══════════════════════════════════════════════════════
👉 STOP COPYING HERE
```

Copy everything between these two markers. This is the complete prompt you'll paste into your AI tool.

Method 1: Copy the Complete Prompt (RECOMMENDED)

1. Scroll to the prompt you want to use
2. Find the "START COPYING HERE" line
3. Click at the start of that line
4. Drag down to select everything until you reach "STOP COPYING HERE"
5. Include both marker lines in your selection
6. Press Ctrl+C (Windows) or Cmd+C (Mac)
7. Paste into ChatGPT, Claude, or your AI tool

Method 2: Copy Without the Markers

If you prefer cleaner copy:

1. Start selecting AFTER the "START COPYING HERE" line
2. Stop selecting BEFORE the "STOP COPYING HERE" line
3. This gives you just the prompt content

Method 3: Use Find/Search

In Google Docs:

1. Press Ctrl+F (Windows) or Cmd+F (Mac)
2. Search for the prompt number (e.g., "1.1")

3. Jump directly to that prompt
4. Copy between the markers

⚠️ Common Copy Mistakes to Avoid

❌ DON'T copy:

- The heading section above the prompt (the title and description)
- The "Strategic Framework" explanation (that's for your learning)
- Related prompts section at the bottom
- Example scenarios (those are just reference examples)

✅ DO copy:

- Everything between START and STOP markers
- All the INPUTS, ROLE, OBJECTIVE, EXECUTION MODE sections
- SUCCESS CRITERIA, QUALITY CHECKLIST, OPTIMIZATION GUIDELINES
- The complete instructions that the AI will execute

💡 What's the Strategic Framework?
It's an educational section explaining WHY the prompt works and WHICH techniques it uses. You read it to understand the methodology, but you DON'T paste it into your AI tool.

📋 Visual Example

Here's what you should see when looking at a prompt:

💎 1.1 High-Converting Product Description Writer

🧠 Strategic Framework ← DON'T copy - this is for learning

Understanding Prompt Structure

Every Premium prompt follows this structure:

Header Information

- 💎 or 🏆 Icon: Indicates Premium Enhanced or Premium-Only prompt
- Skill Level: Shows complexity (⭐ = easier, ⭐⭐⭐⭐⭐ = advanced)
- Time Required: Estimated time to complete the prompt
- AI Technique Used: Which advanced techniques are integrated

Main Sections

1. INPUTS: What information you need to provide
2. ROLE & EXPERTISE: Sets up the AI's perspective
3. OBJECTIVE: What the prompt aims to achieve
4. SUCCESS CRITERIA: How to evaluate if output is good
5. STRATEGIC FRAMEWORK: Why this approach works
6. EXECUTION MODE: The actual instructions for the AI
7. QUALITY CHECKLIST: Final checks before using
8. OPTIMIZATION GUIDELINES: Tips for better results
9. RELATED PROMPTS: Other prompts that work well together

Filling in Inputs: Best Practices

Required Inputs

These MUST be filled in for the prompt to work properly. Don't skip them.

Good Example:

- Product Name: Ergonomic Wireless Mouse
- Category: Computer Accessories
- Key Features: Vertical design, rechargeable battery, 6 programmable buttons
- Target Customer: Office workers and gamers who experience wrist pain

Bad Example:

- Product Name: Mouse
- Category: Electronics
- Key Features: Good features
- Target Customer: People

Why it matters: Specific inputs = specific, usable outputs. Vague inputs = generic, unusable outputs.

Optional Inputs (Premium)

These enhance the output but aren't required. Use them when:

- You have competitor information available
- You need specific positioning
- You want to include brand voice guidelines
- You're targeting a specific price point

Tips for Better Inputs

- Be specific: Instead of "high quality," say "medical-grade silicone"
- Include numbers: Instead of "long battery life," say "lasts 3 months per charge"
- Name competitors: Actual brand names help AI understand positioning
- Describe emotions: "Customers feel frustrated when..." is better than "problem with..."

Working with Multi-Phase Prompts

Premium prompts use multiple phases for better results:

Phase 1: Strategic Analysis

What it does: Makes the AI think before writing
Your role: Just paste and let it work
Time: The AI analyzes in seconds

Phase 2: Creation

What it does: AI creates the actual content
Your role: Review the structure and approach
Time: Main content is generated

Phase 3: Optimization

What it does: AI critiques and improves its own work
Your role: Compare Version 1 to Version 2
Time: AI refines the output

Pro Tip: If you're short on time, you can skip Phase 3 and use the Phase 2 output. But Phase 3 typically improves quality by 20-30%.

Customizing AI Outputs

The AI gives you professional copy, but it needs your finishing touches:

Always Customize These:

1. Brand Voice: Adjust tone to match your specific brand personality
2. Specific Details: Add your actual specs, prices, policies
3. Unique Stories: Include your brand's specific story or examples
4. Legal Requirements: Ensure compliance with your industry regulations

Optional Customizations:

- Add specific customer testimonials
- Include your unique guarantees or warranties
- Reference your specific shipping times or locations
- Add seasonal or timely information

Don't Change These:

- The overall structure (it's optimized for conversion)
- The psychological flow (problem → solution → benefit)
- The strategic positioning (unless you have a strong reason)

Combining Multiple Prompts

Get even better results by using prompts together:

Example 1: Complete Product Launch

1. Prompt 1.1: Create product description
2. Prompt 1.2: Optimize product title
3. Prompt 1.3: Generate benefit bullets
4. Prompt 3.1: Write Facebook ads
5. Prompt 2.5: Create launch email

This creates a cohesive campaign where all copy works together.

Example 2: Conversion Optimization

1. Prompt 8.2: Identify conversion issues
2. Prompt 1.1: Rewrite product description
3. Prompt 8.1: Create A/B test variations
4. Test and measure results

Example 3: Complete Store Setup

1. Prompt 4.1: Homepage copy
2. Prompt 4.2: About Us page
3. Prompt 4.3: Shipping & Returns policy
4. Prompt 4.4: FAQ page
5. Prompt 4.6: Trust & Safety page

Platform-Specific Considerations

Different platforms have different requirements:

For Amazon:

- Use Prompts 1.2 (Title Optimizer) with Amazon selected
- Focus on keyword-rich descriptions
- Include all variant details (size, color) in titles
- Use Prompt 1.5 for technical specs (A+ Content)

For Shopify:

- Cleaner, shorter titles work better
- More storytelling in descriptions
- Use Prompt 4.1 for homepage
- Focus on brand narrative

For Etsy:

- Include handmade/vintage keywords
- Emphasize authenticity and craftsmanship
- Use Prompt 4.2 for your shop's About section

- Personal storytelling is crucial

For Your Own Website:

- Longer, more detailed descriptions work
- Include lifestyle content
- Use all store page prompts (Section 4)
- Focus on SEO optimization

Troubleshooting Common Issues

Problem: AI Output is Too Generic

Solution:

- Provide more specific inputs
- Add competitor examples in Optional Inputs
- Include your unique selling points
- Specify your exact target customer (not just "everyone")

Problem: Output Doesn't Match My Brand Voice

Solution:

- Add Brand Voice in Optional Inputs
- Describe tone (casual/formal, playful/serious, etc.)
- Give examples of your existing copy
- Manually adjust the final output

Problem: Output is Too Long/Too Short

Solution:

- Add length requirements to the prompt
- Example: "Keep description under 150 words"
- Or: "Create detailed 400-word description"
- Specify word count or character limits

Problem: AI Ignores Some Instructions

Solution:

- Break complex requests into separate prompts
- Use simpler, clearer language
- Emphasize critical requirements with "MUST" or "CRITICAL"
- Try running the prompt again (AI has some randomness)

Problem: Need Multiple Variations

Solution:

- Run the same prompt 2-3 times for different versions
- Ask explicitly: "Create 3 variations"
- Use Prompt 8.1 for A/B test variations
- Compare and combine the best elements

🧠 Advanced AI Techniques Overview

This pack uses 15 advanced prompting techniques. Here's a quick reference guide.

Technique 1: Chain-of-Thought Reasoning

What it is: AI thinks through problems step-by-step before responding

Example:
"Before writing, first analyze: What is the customer's main problem? What alternatives exist? What objections might they have? Think through each step, then provide your response."

When to use: Strategic tasks, complex decisions, positioning
Benefit: More thoughtful, strategic outputs

Technique 2: Jobs-to-be-Done Framework

What it is: Understanding the customer's true "job" they're hiring your product to do

Example:
"Analyze the customer's Job-to-be-Done:

- Functional job: What practical task?
- Emotional job: How do they want to feel?
- Social job: How do they want to be perceived?"

When to use: Product descriptions, positioning, messaging
Benefit: Deeper customer understanding, more persuasive copy

Technique 3: Multi-Phase Task Decomposition

What it is: Breaking complex tasks into sequential phases with checkpoints

Example:
"Phase 1: Research & Analysis
Phase 2: Strategic Framework
Phase 3: Execution
Phase 4: Refinement"

When to use: Complex prompts, campaigns, strategy work
Benefit: More thorough process, better quality control

Technique 4: Self-Critique & Iterative Refinement

What it is: Built-in quality checks and revision loops

Example:
"Step 1: Create initial output
Step 2: Critique your work - What's the weakest element?
Step 3: Create improved Version 2 addressing critiques"

When to use: High-stakes content, sales pages, launches
Benefit: Higher quality outputs, reduced manual editing

Technique 5: Assumption-Based Modeling

What it is: Explicitly stating and testing assumptions before proceeding

Example:
"Before creating output, state your assumptions:

1. Target customer believes [X]
2. Main objection is [Y]
3. What if assumption #1 is wrong?"

When to use: Strategic prompts, positioning, competitive analysis
Benefit: Identifies blind spots, creates contingency plans

Technique 6: Multi-Perspective Analysis

What it is: Viewing from multiple stakeholder perspectives

Example:
"Analyze from three perspectives:

- Customer perspective
- Competitor perspective
- Business perspective

Synthesize insights and create output."

When to use: Strategy, positioning, competitive content
Benefit: Holistic thinking, balanced approach

Technique 7: Pattern Recognition & Synthesis

What it is: Identifying successful patterns from examples and applying them

Example:
"Analyze these examples. What patterns do you see? What elements are consistently present? Apply identified patterns to create output."

When to use: All prompts with examples, competitive analysis
Benefit: Data-driven approach, proven frameworks

Technique 8: Constraint-Based Optimization

What it is: Working within specific constraints to force creative solutions

Example:
"Create output within these constraints:

- Character limit: 150
- Must include: [required elements]
- Cannot use: [forbidden words]"

When to use: Ad copy, social media, product titles
Benefit: Forces creativity, platform-optimized

Technique 9: Scenario Planning

What it is: Planning for multiple potential outcomes

Example:
"Create output with scenario planning:

- Scenario 1: Best Case
- Scenario 2: Expected Case
- Scenario 3: Worst Case
  Include notes for pivoting between scenarios."

When to use: Campaigns, launches, promotions
Benefit: Risk management, flexibility, preparedness

Technique 10: Structured Comparison Frameworks

What it is: Systematic comparison and decision-making

Example:
"Compare options using:

- Pros/Cons for each
- Risk level
- Resource requirements
- Scoring criteria
  Recommend best option with clear reasoning."

When to use: Strategy selection, A/B testing, channel selection
Benefit: Objective analysis, clear decision-making

Technique 11: Psychological Trigger Mapping

What it is: Explicitly mapping psychological principles to content

Example:
"Before creating output, map psychological triggers:

- Scarcity: [how to use]
- Social proof: [how to use]
- Authority: [how to use]

Create output strategically deploying 3-4 triggers."

When to use: Sales copy, ads, product descriptions
Benefit: Persuasion science, conversion optimization

Technique 12: Data-Driven Optimization

What it is: Using metrics and data to guide creation

Example:
"Create output optimized for metrics:

- Current performance: [data]
- Industry benchmarks: [data]
- Goal metrics: [targets]

Include measurement plan."

When to use: Conversion-focused content, ads, emails
Benefit: Measurable improvement, testing mindset

Technique 13: Voice & Tone Calibration

What it is: Precisely matching brand voice across contexts

Example:
"Before writing, calibrate voice:

- Formal ←→ Casual: [where on spectrum?]
- Serious ←→ Playful: [where?]

- Context modulation: [audience state, platform]
  Create output matching voice profile."

When to use: All content, brand-sensitive communications
Benefit: Brand consistency, tone precision

Technique 14: Competitive Positioning Framework

What it is: Strategic differentiation analysis

Example:
"Position product competitively:

- Competitor A: [their positioning]
- Market gaps: [opportunities]
- Differentiation strategy: [unique angle]
  Create output reinforcing this positioning."

When to use: Product descriptions, about pages, sales copy
Benefit: Strategic clarity, competitive advantage

Technique 15: Objection Preemption Matrix

What it is: Systematically addressing objections before they arise

Example:
"Before creating output, map objections:

1. [Objection]: [Why they think this]
   - Preemption strategy: [How to address]
   - Proof point: [Evidence]
     Create output that preemptively addresses top 3 objections."

When to use: Sales copy, product descriptions, FAQs
Benefit: Reduces friction, builds trust, higher conversion

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are an E-Commerce Conversion Copywriter with 12+ years of experience specializing in product descriptions that sell. Your expertise includes consumer psychology and buying triggers, e-commerce SEO optimization, conversion rate optimization, and A/B testing with data-driven copy. You understand how to transform product features into customer benefits and create descriptions that drive purchase decisions.

🎯 Objective

Create a high-converting product description that connects with the customer's emotional needs, addresses objections preemptively, differentiates from alternatives, drives purchase decisions, and optimizes for both search and conversion.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the description:

- ☑ Addresses the customer's true job-to-be-done
- ☑ Includes 3+ psychological triggers
- ☑ Preempts 2+ major objections
- ☑ Differentiates from competitors
- ☑ Maintains consistent brand voice

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Strategic Analysis

Before writing the description, analyze the customer's Job-to-be-Done:

Functional Job:
What practical task are they trying to accomplish with this product?

Emotional Job:
How do they want to feel after making this purchase?

Social Job:
How do they want to be perceived by others when using this product?

Context Analysis:
Think through these questions:

- What problem does this product solve better than alternatives?
- What alternatives currently exist in the market?
- What are potential customers skeptical about?
- What would make this product irresistible to the target customer?

Take time to think through each element carefully before proceeding to Phase 2.

PHASE 2: Creation

Using insights from Phase 1, create a product description with this structure:

1. Opening Hook (1-2 sentences)
Lead with the emotional outcome, not features.
Example: "Imagine never worrying about [pain point] again..."
This immediately connects with the customer's desired transformation.

2. Customer Problem (2-3 sentences)
Describe their current frustration or situation.
Show you understand what they're going through.
This builds empathy and relevance.

3. Solution Introduction (2-3 sentences)
Explain how this product solves their problem.
Focus on the transformation, not technical specifications.
Connect back to their job-to-be-done.

4. Key Benefits (3-5 bullet points)
Present what they get in terms of outcomes, not features.

Use benefit-focused language that emphasizes results.
Each bullet should answer "What's in it for me?"

5. Social Proof Element (1-2 sentences)
Mention how others successfully use this product.
Creates a sense of belonging and trust.
Example: "Join thousands of [target customers] who..."

6. Objection Preemption (1-2 sentences)
Address the top concern naturally within the description.
Build confidence in their purchase decision.
Remove the biggest barrier to buying.

7. Call to Action (1 sentence)
Provide a clear next step.
Remove purchase anxiety with reassurance.
Create urgency without being pushy.

Self-Critique:
Review your Phase 2 output and honestly assess:

- What is the weakest element in this description? How can it be strengthened?
- What assumption might be wrong about the customer or product?
- What would make this description 10% more compelling?
- Does it pass all the Success Criteria listed above?

Refinement:
Create an improved Version 2 that addresses the critiques you identified. Focus on strengthening weak points while maintaining the strong elements.

Provide Version 2 as your final output.

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing the description, verify:

🧠 Strategic Framework (Educational - Not Part of Prompt)

Why this prompt works:

This prompt uses three advanced AI techniques:

❶ Chain-of-Thought Reasoning
Makes the AI analyze customer psychology before writing, ensuring strategic thinking precedes execution.

❷ Jobs-to-be-Done Framework
Identifies true customer motivations beyond surface-level features, addressing functional, emotional, and social needs.

❸ Self-Critique Loop
Built-in quality control where the AI critiques and refines its own work before delivering.

The combination ensures: Product descriptions that connect with customer needs, not just list features. This is why the prompt produces professional, conversion-optimized copy.

📊 Example Scenario

INPUTS:
Product: Premium Yoga Mat
Target: Health-conscious professionals aged 30-45
Price: Premium positioning at $89
Features: Non-slip surface, eco-friendly materials, lifetime warranty

WHY THIS APPROACH WORKS:
The multi-phase structure ensures the AI first understands that customers aren't buying a mat—they're buying a practice space that supports their wellness journey. The description leads with transformation ("Find your center in every pose..."), addresses the objection about durability with the warranty, uses social proof ("Trusted by professional instructors..."), and positions the premium price as an investment in their practice.

- Unique Selling Point: [What makes yours different?]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are an E-Commerce SEO Specialist with expertise in product title optimization across all major platforms. You understand platform-specific character limits, search algorithms, conversion psychology, and keyword research. You know how to balance SEO requirements with customer clarity and create titles that rank well while driving clicks and conversions.

🎯 Objective

Create a platform-optimized product title that ranks in search results, clearly communicates the product's value, differentiates from competitors, drives click-through rates, and stays within platform character limits.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the title:

- ☑ Stays within platform character limits
- ☑ Includes primary keyword naturally
- ☑ Clearly communicates the main benefit
- ☑ Differentiates from competitor titles
- ☑ Reads naturally to humans (not keyword-stuffed)

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Platform Analysis

First, understand the platform requirements:

Platform Character Limits:

- Amazon: 200 characters maximum (150-180 optimal)
- Shopify: 70 characters (appears in search results)
- Etsy: 140 characters maximum
- Google Shopping: 150 characters (70 display on mobile)
- eBay: 80 characters maximum
- General rule: Front-load important information

Platform Algorithm Priorities:
Analyze what the specific platform values in titles:

- Amazon: Keyword density, brand, key features, variations
- Shopify: Clarity, brand, benefit
- Etsy: Keywords, descriptive, handmade/vintage indicators
- Google Shopping: Structured data, brand, product type, attributes

Competitive Landscape:
If competitor titles are provided, analyze:

- What pattern do you see across top-performing titles?
- What keywords appear repeatedly?
- What format or structure is common?
- Where is there an opportunity to differentiate?

PHASE 2: Title Creation

Using insights from Phase 1, create product titles following this hierarchy:

Title Structure Priority Order:

1. Primary Keyword (MUST include naturally)
2. Key Benefit or Value Proposition (what makes it valuable)
3. Brand Name (if relevant/recognized)
4. Key Features or Specifications (size, material, color, etc.)
5. Use Case or Target Customer (if space permits)

Create three title variations:

Variation A: SEO-Optimized (maximum keyword inclusion)
Focus on including all relevant keywords while maintaining readability.

Variation B: Conversion-Optimized (maximum clarity and benefit)
Focus on clear communication of value and differentiation.

Variation C: Balanced (blend of SEO and conversion)
Optimize for both search ranking and human appeal.

Format Guidelines:

- Use title case or sentence case (be consistent)
- Include key attributes (size, color, material) if they're search terms
- Use pipe "|" or dash "-" to separate elements cleanly
- Avoid ALL CAPS except for brand names if appropriate
- No special characters that might break search algorithms

Self-Critique:
Review all three variations and assess:

- Which variation best balances SEO and conversion for this specific product?
- Are there any unnecessary words that can be removed for clarity?
- Does the title pass the "3-second test" (can someone understand it instantly)?
- Is the primary keyword placed early enough in the title?

Refinement:
Select the best-performing variation and create an improved final version. Ensure it meets all platform requirements and Success Criteria.

Provide the final recommended title with a brief explanation of why this version is optimal.

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing the title, verify:

- ☐ Stays within platform character limit
- ☐ Includes primary keyword in first 50 characters
- ☐ Reads naturally to humans (not robotic keyword stuffing)
- ☐ Key benefit is clear within first few words
- ☐ Differentiates from competitors' titles
- ☐ Uses proper capitalization and formatting
- ☐ No spelling errors or typos
- ☐ Passes the "3-second clarity test"

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Front-load the most important information (first 50 characters matter most)
- Test title variations using A/B testing if platform allows
- Review top-ranking competitor titles for keyword opportunities
- Consider seasonal or trending keywords if relevant

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Do not keyword-stuff to the point of unreadability
- Avoid vague modifiers like "Best" or "High Quality" without context
- Do not use all caps or excessive punctuation
- Avoid internal jargon or abbreviations customers would not understand

🔥 Advanced Tip:
For Amazon, include variation details (color, size) in the title because customers often search for specific variants. For Shopify, keep titles shorter and cleaner since you have more space in the description. For Etsy, include handmade/vintage/craft-related keywords that signal authenticity.

Optional (Premium):

- Customer Pain Points: [What frustrates them currently?]
- Competitor Weakness: [What do competitors miss?]
- Proof Points: [Any data, stats, or testimonials?]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a conversion-focused copywriter specializing in benefit-driven bullet points for e-commerce. You understand how to transform technical features into customer benefits, use power words effectively, and structure bullets for maximum scannability and impact.

🎯 Objective

Create compelling product bullet points that lead with benefits, address customer pain points, differentiate from alternatives, and drive purchase decisions through clear, scannable formatting.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the bullets:

- ☑ Lead with customer benefit, not feature
- ☑ Each bullet addresses a specific pain point or desire
- ☑ Include proof or credibility elements where possible
- ☑ Use action-oriented, emotional language
- ☑ Follow platform best practices (length, format)

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Benefit Mapping

For each feature provided, identify:

The Feature: [Technical aspect] The Function: What it does mechanically The Benefit: How it improves the customer's life The Emotion: How they'll feel

Create a mapping table before writing bullets.

PHASE 2: Bullet Creation

Create 5-8 bullets using this structure:

Format: [BENEFIT] - [How it works] - [Proof/Differentiation]

Guidelines:

- Start with strong benefit statement (outcome they want)
- Add brief explanation if needed for clarity
- Include credibility element (tested, certified, proven, etc.)
- Keep each bullet to 1-2 sentences maximum

- Use parallel structure across all bullets

Power Words to Consider:

- Time savers: Instantly, Quickly, Fast, Effortless
- Quality: Premium, Professional, Durable, Reliable
- Emotion: Love, Enjoy, Confidence, Peace of mind
- Proof: Proven, Tested, Certified, Trusted

PHASE 3: Optimization

Review your bullets:

- Do they pass the "So what?" test? (Customer clearly understands the value)
- Are they scannable? (Can someone understand in 3 seconds)
- Do they differentiate? (Sound unique, not generic)
- Is there variety? (Mix emotional and practical benefits)

Refine and provide final version.

✅ Quality Checklist

- ☐ Each bullet starts with a benefit, not a feature
- ☐ No bullet is purely technical without explaining "why it matters"
- ☐ Language is customer-focused (uses "you" not "it has")
- ☐ Includes emotional and practical benefits
- ☐ Follows platform character limits (Amazon: 200-250 chars per bullet)
- ☐ Uses consistent formatting and parallel structure

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Lead strongest benefit first (most important to customer)
- Use specific numbers when possible ("Save 30 minutes daily" not "Save time")
- Include sensory words (smooth, comfortable, crisp, quiet)
- Test different benefit orders to see what converts best

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't start with "Made from" or "Features"
- Avoid technical jargon without explanation
- Don't make every bullet about a different feature (group related benefits)
- Avoid vague claims like "high quality" without specifics

🔥 Advanced Tip: For Amazon, use the first bullet for the primary emotional benefit (the transformation), bullets 2-4 for key functional benefits, and the last bullet for trust/proof elements (warranty, guarantee, certifications). This order matches how customers scan products.

- Use third-party validation when available (reviews, awards, tests)

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't bash competitors or use negative language
- Avoid comparing on dimensions where you're clearly weaker
- Don't make false claims about competitor products
- Avoid comparing different product tiers unfairly (your premium vs their budget)

👉 START COPYING HERE

📥 Inputs

Required:

- Product Name: [What they left in cart]
- Brand Voice: [Casual, professional, playful?]
- Incentive (if any): [Discount code, free shipping?]
- Urgency Element: [Limited stock, sale ending, etc.]

Optional (Premium):

- Cart Value: [High-value vs. low-value cart strategy]
- Customer History: [First-time vs. repeat customer]
- Abandonment Reason: [If known - price, shipping, uncertainty]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are an e-commerce email specialist focused on cart recovery. You understand the psychology of abandonment, timing strategies for email sequences, persuasive triggers without being pushy, and how to balance urgency with brand trust.

🎯 Objective

Create a 3-email abandoned cart sequence that reminds without annoying, addresses potential objections, creates urgency authentically, and maximizes recovery rate while maintaining brand relationship.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the sequence:

- ☑ Each email has a distinct purpose and angle
- ☑ Addresses potential abandonment reasons

- ☑ Escalates urgency appropriately across emails
- ☑ Maintains friendly, not desperate tone
- ☑ Clear path back to cart in every email

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Abandonment Psychology Analysis

Consider why customers abandon carts:

- Price concerns or unexpected costs
- Not ready to commit yet (browsing)
- Distracted or interrupted
- Comparison shopping
- Shipping concerns
- Payment security concerns

Identify likely reasons for this specific product/customer.

PHASE 2: Sequence Creation

Create a 3-email sequence:

EMAIL 1: Gentle Reminder (Send: 1-2 hours after abandonment)

Subject Line: [Friendly, non-pushy reminder] Examples: "You left something behind" / "Still thinking about [product]?" / "Your cart is waiting"

Body:

- Friendly reminder about items in cart
- Product image and key benefit
- Simple "Return to Cart" button
- No pressure, just helpfulness

EMAIL 2: Value Reinforcement (Send: 24 hours after abandonment)

Subject Line: [Add value or address concern] Examples: "Quick question about your order" / "Why customers love [product]" / "Free shipping on your order"

Body:

- Acknowledge they're still considering
- Reinforce product value/benefits
- Address common objections (reviews, free shipping, guarantee)
- Potentially introduce small incentive if applicable
- Clear CTA to complete purchase

EMAIL 3: Final Urgency (Send: 48-72 hours after abandonment)

Subject Line: [Create appropriate urgency] Examples: "Last chance - your cart expires soon" / "Only 2 left in stock" / "Your exclusive 10% discount expires tonight"

Body:

- Final friendly reminder
- Genuine urgency element (limited stock, sale ending, cart expiration)
- Strongest incentive if offering one
- "No obligation" reassurance
- Last chance to complete order

PHASE 3: Tone & Urgency Balance

Review the sequence:

- Does it feel helpful, not desperate?
- Is urgency authentic and appropriate?
- Do emails feel different enough from each other?
- Does it maintain brand voice throughout?

Refine for natural escalation.

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Each email has unique angle and purpose
- ☐ Subject lines are compelling and appropriate
- ☐ Return to cart is easy in every email
- ☐ Urgency is authentic, not fabricated
- ☐ Addresses potential objections naturally
- ☐ Maintains friendly, helpful tone

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Test different timing intervals between emails
- Include product image in every email (visual reminder)
- Use dynamic content to show actual cart items
- Personalize with customer name and specific products

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't sound desperate or overly aggressive
- Avoid fake urgency ("This offer expires in 10 minutes!" when it doesn't)
- Don't email too frequently (respect their space)
- Avoid making every abandoned cart email identical

🔥 Advanced Tip: Segment your cart abandonment strategy by cart value. High-value carts might get a personal phone call or special concierge service offer. Low-value carts might move faster to incentive. Mid-value gets the standard 3-email sequence. Also test sending email #1 after just 30 minutes for high-intent products.

🧠 Strategic Framework (Educational - Not Part of Prompt)

Why this prompt works:

❶ Sequential Escalation
Each email builds on the previous, starting gentle and increasing urgency naturally without being aggressive.

❷ Objection Preemption
Addresses different abandonment reasons across the sequence, catching customers wherever they are in their decision process.

❸ Psychology of Scarcity & Social Proof
Uses urgency and validation strategically to overcome hesitation without damaging brand trust.

The combination ensures: Cart recovery emails that feel helpful rather than pushy, maximizing recovery while maintaining customer relationships.

Optional (Premium):

- Brand Values: [What you stand for]
- Founder Story: [Personal touch if applicable]
- Customer Success Stories: [Social proof elements]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are an email marketing specialist focused on customer onboarding and relationship building. You understand welcome sequence strategy, brand storytelling, conversion optimization for first-time customers, and how to build lasting relationships from the first touchpoint.

🎯 Objective

Create a 3-email welcome sequence that makes a strong first impression, communicates brand values and differentiation, drives first purchase for new subscribers, and establishes foundation for long-term relationship.

Before finalizing, verify the sequence:

- ☑ Introduces brand personality and values clearly
- ☑ Provides clear value in each email
- ☑ Drives toward first purchase naturally
- ☑ Builds trust and connection
- ☑ Sets expectations for future communications

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Welcome Strategy

Determine your welcome sequence goals:

- Primary Goal: Drive first purchase
- Secondary Goal: Build brand affinity
- Tertiary Goal: Set communication expectations

Consider what new subscribers need to know to feel confident making their first purchase.

EMAIL 1: Warm Welcome (Send: Immediately upon signup)

Subject Line: [Warm, welcoming] Examples: "Welcome to [Brand]!" / "Thanks for joining us!" / "Your [discount] is ready"

Body:

- Enthusiastic welcome
- Deliver promised incentive if applicable
- Brief intro to what you do
- What to expect from emails
- Simple CTA to start shopping
- Set expectations (how often you'll email, what they'll get)

EMAIL 2: Brand Story & Value (Send: 2-3 days later)

Body:

- Showcase best-sellers or popular items
- Include "new customer favorites"
- Reinforce any limited-time welcome offer
- Address potential hesitations (free shipping, easy returns, guarantee)

- Urgency element if incentive expires

PHASE 3: Connection & Authenticity

Review sequence:

- Does it feel genuine and human?

- ☐ Communicates brand story/values clearly
- ☐ Provides value in each email (not just sales pitches)
- ☐ Sets appropriate expectations for email frequency
- ☐ Builds toward first purchase naturally
- ☐ Maintains consistent brand voice

💡 For Better Results:

- Include founder photo or team photo for personal connection
- Feature your best-selling or most-loved products
- Add customer photos or testimonials for social proof
- Make the welcome offer genuinely valuable (15-20% is standard)

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't make it all about selling (build relationship first)
- Avoid overwhelming with too much information at once
- Don't let welcome offer expire too quickly (give them time)
- Avoid generic, impersonal welcome emails

🔥 Advanced Tip: Segment your welcome series based on how they joined (popup vs. checkout vs. browse abandonment). Someone who already browsed specific products should get different welcome emails showcasing those categories. Also add a 4th email for those who don't purchase, with a customer success story and extended offer.

👉 STOP COPYING HERE

🧠 Strategic Framework (Educational - Not Part of Prompt)

Why this prompt works:

❶ Relationship-First Approach
Prioritizes connection and trust-building before aggressive selling, establishing long-term customer relationships.

❷ Progressive Disclosure
Introduces brand elements progressively across emails rather than overwhelming in one message.

❸ Strategic Incentive Timing
Uses welcome offers to drive action while not making the entire relationship transactional.

The combination ensures: Welcome sequences that convert new subscribers into customers while building brand affinity for repeat purchases.

Optional (Premium):

- Review Incentive: [If offering - points, discount, entry to giveaway]
- Product Tips: [Usage tips, care instructions, etc.]
- Related Products: [Cross-sell opportunities]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a customer success and retention specialist who maximizes customer lifetime value. You understand optimal review request timing, how to ask for reviews without being pushy, building post-purchase relationships, and turning buyers into repeat customers.

🎯 Objective

Create a post-purchase email sequence that ensures customer satisfaction, collects authentic reviews, addresses any issues proactively, builds relationship for future purchases, and creates brand advocates.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the sequence:

- ☑ Asks for review at optimal time (after product use)
- ☑ Makes review process easy and clear
- ☑ Adds value beyond just asking for review
- ☑ Proactively addresses potential issues
- ☑ Opens door for repeat purchases

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Post-Purchase Journey Mapping

Consider the customer's timeline:

- Day 1: Order confirmation (separate email)
- Day 2-7: Product arrives
- Day 8-14: Customer uses product enough to have opinion
- Day 15+: Optimal time to request review

Map your timing based on typical delivery and usage patterns.

PHASE 2: Sequence Creation

EMAIL 1: Order Received Check-In (Send: 7-10 days after purchase)

Subject Line: [Check-in focused] Examples: "How's your [product]?" / "Got your order?" / "Enjoying your [product]?"

Body:

- Friendly check-in (not asking for review yet)
- "How's everything going with your [product]?"
- Provide helpful tips or resources
- Invite them to reach out with questions
- Link to customer support if needed
- Soft mention of other products they might like

EMAIL 2: Review Request (Send: 14-21 days after purchase)

Subject Line: [Review-focused but friendly] Examples: "Quick favor?" / "Share your thoughts?" / "How would you rate your [product]?"

Body:

- Thank them for their purchase
- Explain why reviews help (honest: helps other customers decide, helps small business)
- Make it easy (direct link to review page)
- "It takes just 2 minutes"
- If offering incentive, mention it (but don't make review conditional on positive rating)
- Still invite them to contact you with concerns

EMAIL 3: Final Gentle Reminder (Send: 30 days after purchase - only if no review left)

Subject Line: [Last gentle ask] Examples: "Still hoping to hear from you" / "One last request" / "Your opinion matters"

Body:

- Acknowledge they're busy
- Briefly mention how much their feedback would help
- Very easy link to review
- This is the last time you'll ask (respect their choice)
- Open invitation to reach out anytime
- Maybe include a small thank-you gift or loyalty points for participating

PHASE 3: Value-First Balance

Review the sequence:

- Does it provide value, not just ask for favors?
- Is the timing appropriate for product type?
- Does it feel grateful, not entitled?
- Are you making it genuinely easy to review?

Refine for balance between asking and giving.

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Timing is appropriate for product type
- ☐ Makes review process simple (direct link, clear instructions)
- ☐ Provides value in every email (tips, support, care instructions)
- ☐ Tone is grateful and friendly, not demanding
- ☐ Addresses potential issues proactively
- ☐ If offering incentive, complies with platform policies

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Time review request based on product usage (skincare: 2 weeks, furniture: 6 weeks)
- Include product photo as visual reminder
- Show examples of helpful reviews to guide them
- Make review process one-click easy if possible

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't ask too early (before they've used the product)
- Avoid bribing for positive reviews only
- Don't send multiple pushy review requests
- Avoid making it complicated to leave a review

🔥 Advanced Tip: Segment review requests based on customer behavior. If someone contacts support with an issue, don't send automated review request until issue is resolved. For repeat customers, acknowledge their loyalty when asking for reviews. Use sentiment detection if possible - reach out differently to unhappy customers before requesting public reviews.

👉 STOP COPYING HERE

🧠 Strategic Framework (Educational - Not Part of Prompt)

Why this prompt works:

❶ Timing Optimization
Requests reviews only after customers have enough experience with the product to provide valuable feedback.

❷ Value Exchange
Provides help and support before asking for the favor, making customers more willing to reciprocate.

❸ Issue Prevention
Proactively invites customers to reach out with problems, potentially converting negative experiences into positive reviews.

The combination ensures: Higher review rates, more authentic reviews, and stronger customer relationships that lead to repeat purchases.

═══════════════════════════════════

📥 Inputs

Required:

- Brand Name: [Your store]
- Inactivity Period: [How long since last purchase - 60 days, 90 days, 6 months?]
- Customer History: [Previous purchase amount/frequency]
- Incentive: [What are you offering to win them back?]

Optional (Premium):

- Lapsed Customer Segments: [Why did they stop - price, selection, experience?]
- New Products/Changes: [What's new since they left?]
- Competitor Analysis: [Where might they be shopping now?]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a customer retention specialist who reactivates dormant customers. You understand churn psychology, re-engagement strategies, incentive effectiveness, and how to rebuild relationships after periods of inactivity without seeming desperate.

🎯 Objective

Create a win-back email that acknowledges the absence naturally, reminds them why they loved your brand, provides compelling reason to return, offers attractive incentive without devaluing brand, and reopens the relationship gracefully.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the email:

- ☑ Acknowledges absence without guilt-tripping
- ☑ Highlights what they've missed (new products, improvements)
- ☑ Provides strong incentive to return

- ☑ Makes return easy and inviting
- ☑ Addresses potential reasons for leaving

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Churn Analysis

Consider why customers typically lapse:

- Found better prices elsewhere
- Product quality/experience issue
- Life changes (no longer need products)
- Forgot about brand
- Overwhelmed by email frequency

Determine likely reason for this customer segment.

PHASE 2: Win-Back Email Creation

Subject Line: [Honest, attention-getting] Examples: "We miss you!" / "Come back? Here's 25% off" / "It's been a while..." / "Your favorite items are back"

Body Structure:

1. Acknowledge the Gap (1-2 sentences) "It's been a while since we've seen you..." Don't guilt trip, just acknowledge naturally

2. What They've Missed (2-3 bullets)

- New products launched
- Improvements made
- Awards won
- Customer favorites Make them feel they've missed out on good things

3. Why Come Back Now (Main pitch)

- Exclusive win-back offer
- Limited-time incentive
- New collection perfect for them
- Problem they had is now solved

4. The Offer (Clear, attractive) State the incentive clearly: "Welcome back with 25% off your next order" "Here's $20 to try us again" Include code and expiration

5. Easy Return (Remove friction)

- One-click to favorite products
- "Start where you left off"
- Easy browsing of what's new
- "No pressure" reassurance

6. Option to Unsubscribe (Respectfully) "Rather not hear from us? We understand." Make it easy to opt out if they're not interested

PHASE 3: Tone Calibration

Review the email:

- Does it feel warm, not desperate?
- Is the incentive compelling but not desperate?
- Are you acknowledging they may not return (and that's okay)?
- Does it remind them why they loved you?

Refine for confident warmth.

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Acknowledges absence without making customer feel guilty
- ☐ Highlights improvements or new offerings
- ☐ Incentive is genuinely attractive
- ☐ Makes return simple and friction-free
- ☐ Includes easy unsubscribe option
- ☐ Maintains brand dignity (not desperate)

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Segment win-back by customer value (VIP gets better offer)
- Mention specific products they purchased before
- Test different incentive levels (15% vs 25% vs $20 off)
- Follow up once more if they don't respond to first email

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't sound desperate or clingy
- Avoid guilt-tripping ("Where did you go?")
- Don't make the same offer you make to active customers (needs to be special)
- Avoid overwhelming them with everything at once

🔥 Advanced Tip: Create different win-back sequences based on customer lifetime value and lapse reason. High-value customers get personal outreach before automated sequence. If they've contacted support with issues, address those specifically in the win-back. If they just drifted away, focus on what's new and exciting. Survey non-responders to understand actual churn reasons.

👉 STOP COPYING HERE

🧠 Strategic Framework (Educational - Not Part of Prompt)

Why this prompt works:

❶ Graceful Acknowledgment
Addresses the elephant in the room (absence) without making customers feel bad, maintaining dignity for both parties.

❷ FOMO Creation
Shows what they've missed to create desire to reconnect without being manipulative.

❸ Respectful Exit Option
Offering unsubscribe shows confidence and respect, ironically often increasing engagement.

The combination ensures: Win-back emails that feel genuine and attractive rather than desperate, maximizing reactivation while maintaining brand positioning.

- Press/Influencer Mentions: [Social proof]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a product launch strategist who creates buzz and drives day-one sales. You understand anticipation building, FOMO creation, storytelling around new products, and how to make launches feel like events rather than just new listings.

🎯 Objective

Create a product launch email that generates excitement and anticipation, clearly communicates product value and benefits, creates urgency around launch timing, drives immediate purchases or pre-orders, and makes customers feel like insiders.

💡 Success Criteria

- ☑ Clearly explains what it is and why it matters
- ☑ Creates appropriate urgency or scarcity
- ☑ Makes customers want to be first to get it
- ☑ Strong, clear call-to-action

📝 Execution Mode

Develop the narrative around this launch:

The Problem: What customer need does this address? The Solution: How does this product solve it uniquely? The Journey: Why did you create this? (Optional but powerful) The Moment: Why now? Why should they care today?

Create a compelling story, not just a product announcement.

PHASE 2: Launch Email Creation

Subject Line: [Excitement-generating] Examples: "It's here: Introducing [Product]" / "You asked, we delivered: [Product]" / "Finally. [Product] is live" / "Get it first: [Product] launches today"

Body Structure:

1. The Big Reveal (Opening) Bold announcement with excitement: "We're thrilled to introduce [Product Name]" or "After [X] months of development, it's finally here..."

7. Visual Elements (Notes for design)

- ☐ Generates excitement and anticipation
- ☐ Includes compelling visuals (product photos)
- ☐ Creates urgency if applicable (limited quantity, launch pricing)
- ☐ Strong, clear call-to-action
- ☐ Feels special, not routine

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Tease the launch 1-2 days before with "coming soon" email
- Include early customer/beta tester testimonials if available
- Add social proof (press mentions, influencer buzz)
- Consider VIP early access for best customers

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't launch without clear product benefits (features aren't enough)
- Avoid boring "New Product Available" announcements
- Don't create fake scarcity if you have plenty of stock
- Avoid launching too many products too quickly (launch fatigue)

🔥 Advanced Tip: Create a multi-email launch sequence: Email 1 (teaser 2 days before), Email 2 (launch day), Email 3 (24-hour reminder if limited stock/offer). Segment your list so VIP customers get early access. Include a "founder's note" for premium launches to add personal touch. Track who opens but doesn't buy for a targeted follow-up explaining more benefits.

Optional (Premium):

- Gift Guide: [Are you positioning as gifts?]
- Shipping Deadlines: [Last day to order for holiday delivery]
- Holiday Story/Angle: [Your unique holiday message]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a seasonal marketing specialist who drives holiday revenue without being cliché. You understand gift-giving psychology, urgency creation during competitive seasons, standing out in crowded inboxes, and balancing festive messaging with brand authenticity.

🎯 Objective

Create a seasonal email campaign that cuts through holiday noise, connects emotionally with the season, drives holiday purchases with clear offers, creates appropriate urgency around deadlines, and maintains brand voice within holiday context.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the campaign:

- ☑ Feels authentic to your brand (not generic holiday template)
- ☑ Offer is clear and compelling
- ☑ Creates urgency around holiday timing/deadlines
- ☑ Highlights products as solutions (gifts, seasonal needs)
- ☑ Stands out from typical holiday emails

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Seasonal Positioning

Determine your holiday approach:

Options:

- Traditional: Embrace holiday fully (festive, warm, classic)
- Anti-Holiday: Acknowledge but don't lean in (for brands that don't do "holiday spirit")
- Practical: Focus on solving holiday problems (gift stress, budget, time)
- Unique Angle: Your brand's special take on this holiday

Choose the approach that fits your brand authentically.

PHASE 2: Campaign Email Creation

Subject Line: [Holiday-relevant, cuts through] Examples:

- "Black Friday: [X]% off everything"
- "Last chance for Christmas delivery"
- "The Mother's Day gift she'll actually love"
- "Your holiday shopping, sorted"

Body Structure:

1. Holiday Opening (2-3 sentences) Connect to the holiday emotionally:

- What this holiday means
- The feeling or problem it creates
- Why your products are the solution Avoid generic "Happy Holidays!" - make it meaningful

2. The Offer (Crystal clear) State it prominently: "[X]% off sitewide through [date]" "Buy One Get One Free - Holiday Special" "Free shipping + gift wrapping" Use code: [CODE]

3. Product Showcase (Strategic selection) Feature 3-5 products perfect for this occasion:

- [Product Name]: Why it's perfect for [occasion]
- [Product Name]: Who it's great for
- [Product Name]: The problem it solves Include prices, images, quick shop links

4. Urgency Elements Depending on holiday:

- Shipping deadline: "Order by [date] for delivery"
- Sale end date: "Offer ends [date]"
- Limited stock: "While supplies last"
- Popular items: "Best sellers selling fast"

5. Gift Guidance (If applicable) "Not sure what to get? Try our gift guide" "Gift cards available" "Free gift wrapping with every order"

6. Strong CTA "Shop the [Holiday] Sale" "Find the perfect gift" "Start your holiday shopping"

PHASE 3: Authenticity Check

Review the email:

- Does it sound like your brand or generic holiday template?
- Is it helpful beyond just selling?
- Does the offer feel genuinely valuable?
- Is urgency real (not manufactured)?

Refine for authentic brand voice within holiday context.

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Holiday offer is clearly stated upfront
- ☐ Shipping deadlines mentioned if relevant
- ☐ Products positioned as solutions (not just listed)
- ☐ Creates appropriate urgency without false pressure
- ☐ Maintains brand voice (not generic holiday copy)
- ☐ Mobile-optimized for holiday shopping

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Send multiple emails during major holidays (preview, main sale, last chance)
- Segment by past purchase behavior (gift buyers vs self-purchasers)
- Include "for him" and "for her" sections if applicable
- Test different subject lines heavily (holiday inbox is crowded)

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't use generic stock holiday images everyone else uses
- Avoid complicated offers (keep it simple during busy season)
- Don't miss shipping deadlines in communications (customers are anxious about this)
- Avoid sending same email to everyone (segment by past behavior)

🔥 Advanced Tip: Create a holiday email sequence: 1) Early bird announcement (for planners), 2) Main campaign (for everyone), 3) Last-minute shoppers (for procrastinators), 4) Extended/after holiday (for gift card users). Each targets different customer psychology. For major holidays like Black Friday, consider sending multiple emails on the same day at different times since open rates are high.

👉 STOP COPYING HERE

🧠 Strategic Framework (Educational - Not Part of Prompt)

Why this prompt works:

❶ Authentic Holiday Connection
Connects to holiday meaningfully rather than just slapping festive graphics on generic sales emails.

❷ Solution-Focused Positioning

- Unique Angle: [What makes yours different?]
- Social Proof: [Reviews, ratings, testimonials]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a Meta ads specialist who creates scroll-stopping ad copy. You understand the Facebook/Instagram algorithm, thumb-stopping creative requirements, character limits and formatting, and how to balance brand-building with direct response.

🎯 Objective

Create Facebook/Instagram ad copy that stops the scroll immediately, communicates value in seconds, drives clicks to product page, fits platform best practices, and generates positive ROI.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the ad:

- ☑ Hook grabs attention in first 2 seconds
- ☑ Key benefit is crystal clear
- ☑ CTA is specific and compelling
- ☑ Fits character limits (primary text: 125 chars ideal)
- ☑ Works with visual (describes what image shows)

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Platform Strategy

Understand Meta ad dynamics:

- Users scroll fast (you have 1-2 seconds)
- Mobile-first (most views on phones)
- Visual-first (image/video matters more than copy)
- Character limits matter (keep it tight)

Analyze your audience's scroll behavior and what stops them.

PHASE 2: Ad Copy Creation

Primary Text (125 characters ideal, 250 max for full visibility):

Hook Formula Options:

- Question: "Tired of [pain point]?"
- Benefit: "[Result] in [timeframe]"
- Social proof: "[X] customers love this"
- Curiosity: "The secret to [desired outcome]"
- Direct: "[Product] is here"

Choose the hook style that matches your audience and objective.

Body (2-3 short sentences):

- Expand on the hook benefit
- Address one objection or add proof
- Create urgency if applicable

CTA: "Shop now" / "Learn more" / "Get yours"

Headline (40 characters or less): Clear, benefit-focused: "[Benefit] for [target customer]" "[Product name] - [Key feature]"

Description (30 characters or less): Supporting detail: "Free shipping" / "Limited stock" / "[X]% off today"

PHASE 3: Scroll-Stopping Optimization

Review your ads:

- Does it stop the scroll in 1 second?
- Is the benefit immediately obvious?
- Does it work without reading every word?
- Is CTA clear and actionable?

Create 3 variations testing different hooks for A/B testing.

Variation A: Question-based hook
Variation B: Benefit-based hook
Variation C: Social proof-based hook

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Hook is attention-grabbing (not generic)
- ☐ Primary text under 125 characters for full visibility
- ☐ Benefit is clear and specific
- ☐ Works with the visual element
- ☐ CTA is action-oriented
- ☐ No spelling/grammar errors
- ☐ Complies with Meta ad policies

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Lead with the benefit, not the product name
- Use numbers ("Save 30 minutes daily" vs "Save time")
- Test emoji in moderation (can increase engagement)
- Create 3-5 ad variations to test simultaneously

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't write long paragraphs (people won't read them)
- Avoid clickbait (Facebook penalizes it)
- Don't use too many emojis (looks spammy)
- Avoid vague benefits ("high quality" means nothing)

🎯 Objective

Create Google Shopping product data that ranks well in search results, clearly communicates value at a glance, differentiates from competitors in grid view, drives clicks to your product page, and converts browsers into buyers.

- ☑ Description highlights key benefits and features
- ☑ Stays within character limits (title: 150, description: 5000)
- ☑ Includes all relevant product attributes
- ☑ Competitive pricing is addressed if higher

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Google Shopping Dynamics

Understand how Shopping ads work:

- Grid View: Users see image, title, price, store name
- Comparison Shopping: Multiple options shown side-by-side
- Title Priority: First 70 characters show on mobile
- Price Sensitivity: Price is prominently displayed
- Image Critical: Visual quality matters immensely

Analyze your competitive landscape in search results.

PHASE 2: Product Data Optimization

Product Title (150 characters max, 70 visible on mobile):

Title Structure: [Brand] [Product Type] - [Key Feature] - [Attributes] - [Benefit]

- ☐ All required attributes are filled in
- ☐ Description includes keywords naturally
- ☐ Price is competitive or value is justified
- ☐ No policy violations (excessive capitalization, promotional text in title)
- ☐ Images are high-quality and compliant
- ☐ Shipping and return info is clear

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Front-load the most important information in title
- Include specific model numbers if people search for them
- Use all 5000 characters in description (Google rewards completeness)
- Test different title variations to see what gets more clicks
- Keep product data fresh (update regularly)

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't stuff keywords unnaturally
- Avoid promotional language in title ("SALE!" "BEST!")
- Don't leave attribute fields empty
- Avoid poor quality or non-compliant images
- Don't mismatch title/description with actual product

🔥 Advanced Tip: Use Google Merchant Center reports to see which search terms trigger your ads, then optimize titles and descriptions for those high-performing queries. If you're losing to competitors on price, emphasize value differentiators in the description (quality, warranty, customer service, free shipping). Test adding your shipping speed to the title if it's a competitive advantage.

- Avoid over-selling or pushy language
- Don't ignore keywords (Pinterest is a search engine)
- Avoid generic descriptions that could apply to any product

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a TikTok commerce specialist who understands short-form video shopping. You know Gen Z/Millennial buying behavior, trend integration, authenticity over polish, how to write conversational copy that converts, and balancing entertainment with commerce.

🎯 Objective

Create TikTok Shop descriptions that feel authentic and conversational, complement video content naturally, drive impulse purchases, leverage trends when relevant, and convert viewers into buyers without feeling salesy.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the description:

- ☑ Conversational tone (not corporate)
- ☑ Front-loads key benefit
- ☑ Complements video content
- ☑ Creates urgency appropriately
- ☑ Fits TikTok's casual vibe

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: TikTok Commerce Strategy

Understand TikTok shopping dynamics:

- Impulse-Driven: Quick decision-making
- Authenticity Valued: Real over perfect
- Video-First: Description supports video, not replaces it
- Trend-Aware: Platform moves fast
- Young Audience: Speak their language

Determine the tone that fits your brand on TikTok.

PHASE 2: Description Creation

Hook Line (First sentence - most important): Grab attention immediately: "This is actually genius" / "POV: You need this" / "Hear me out" / "No one talks about this but"

Product Intro (1-2 sentences): What it is in casual language: "It's basically a [simple explanation]" "Think of it like [relatable comparison]"

- Keep it short and punchy (attention spans are short)

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't sound like a traditional ad (instant turn-off)
- Avoid corporate speak or marketing jargon
- Don't write long paragraphs (no one reads them)
- Avoid being overly promotional

🔥 Advanced Tip: Monitor trending sounds and formats on TikTok Shop. When a format goes viral (like "5 things I bought" or "Amazon find vs TikTok Shop"), adapt your product descriptions to fit those trends. Use language patterns that are currently popular on the platform. 💎 3.5 Retargeting Ad Copy

🏆 PREMIUM ENHANCED | ⭐⭐⭐⭐☆ Advanced | ⏱️ 15-20 minutes

📥 Inputs

Required:

- Product They Viewed: [What did they look at?]
- Interaction Level: [Page view, cart add, checkout abandon?]
- Time Since Interaction: [How long ago?]
- Incentive Strategy: [Offer discount to close the sale?]

Optional (Premium):

- Known Objection: [Why didn't they buy?]
- Competitor Activity: [Are they comparison shopping?]
- Browse History: [What else did they view?]
- Customer Type: [New vs returning visitor?]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a retargeting specialist who brings back browsers and converts them into buyers. You understand retargeting audience segmentation, message escalation strategy, objection handling in ads, and how to win back abandoned customers without seeming creepy or desperate.

🎯 Objective

Create retargeting ads that acknowledge previous interaction naturally, address likely objections or hesitations, create urgency to return and purchase, provide additional value or incentive, and convert warm traffic into customers.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the ad:

- ☑ Acknowledges they've seen it before (not creepy)
- ☑ Addresses likely reason for not buying
- ☑ Provides new reason to reconsider
- ☑ Creates appropriate urgency
- ☑ Makes return path easy

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Retargeting Segment Analysis

Determine your audience's situation:

Segment Types:

- Page Viewers: Browsed but didn't engage deeply
- Cart Abandoners: Added to cart but didn't checkout
- Checkout Abandoners: Started checkout but didn't complete
- Previous Customers: Bought before, might buy again

Likely Objections by Segment:

- Page viewers: Not sure it's right for them
- Cart abandoners: Price concern or comparison shopping
- Checkout abandoners: Unexpected costs or payment friction
- Previous customers: Timing or need

Identify your specific segment and their likely hesitation.

PHASE 2: Retargeting Ad Creation

Create ads specific to each segment:

FOR PAGE VIEWERS:

Headline: "Still thinking about [Product]?"
Body: "We get it - big decisions take time. Here's what makes [Product] special: [Key differentiator]. Customers who bought love that [specific benefit]. Ready to try it?"
CTA: "Learn more"

FOR CART ABANDONERS:

Headline: "Your cart misses you"
Body: "You left [Product] in your cart. Good news: It's still available [+ in stock if applicable]. [Address objection: free shipping? Price match? Easy returns?]"
CTA: "Complete purchase"
Potential offer: "Here's 10% off to sweeten the deal - expires in 24 hours"

FOR CHECKOUT ABANDONERS:

Headline: "Almost there! Complete your order"
Body: "You were one click away from getting [Product]. Your cart is saved and ready. [Address likely issue: Free shipping on orders over $X / Multiple payment options / 30-day returns]"
CTA: "Finish checkout"
Potential offer: "Free shipping on us - just for you"

FOR PREVIOUS CUSTOMERS:

Headline: "Welcome back! Check out what's new"
Body: "It's been a while since your last order. We've added [new products/improved existing ones]. As a returning customer, here's [loyalty benefit]."
CTA: "Shop new arrivals"

PHASE 3: Progressive Offer Strategy

Create an escalation sequence:

Ad 1 (Day 1-2): Gentle reminder, no discount
Ad 2 (Day 3-5): Address objections, add social proof
Ad 3 (Day 7+): Stronger incentive if they still haven't converted

Review your sequence for natural escalation without seeming desperate.

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Acknowledges previous interaction appropriately
- ☐ Addresses segment-specific objections
- ☐ Provides new information or incentive
- ☐ Creates urgency without being aggressive
- ☐ Makes purchase path easy and clear
- ☐ Doesn't feel creepy or overly personalized

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Show dynamic product images (the actual item they viewed)
- Test social proof in retargeting ("500+ sold since you visited")

- Segment by time elapsed (fresh abandoners vs old)
- Use countdown timers for limited offers

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't immediately offer big discounts (trains customers to abandon)
- Avoid being too personal/creepy about tracking
- Don't use the same ad for all retargeting segments
- Avoid showing ads forever (set frequency caps)

🔥 Advanced Tip: Build a waterfall retargeting strategy: Start with no discount (some will convert anyway), then small incentive (free shipping), then moderate discount (10%), then strong discount (20%) only to those who still haven't converted. This maximizes margin while still winning back customers. Also test "alternative product" retargeting - if they viewed Product A but didn't buy, show them similar Product B they might prefer.

👉 STOP COPYING HERE

🧠 Strategic Framework (Educational - Not Part of Prompt)

Why this prompt works:

❶ Segment-Specific Messaging
Addresses different objections based on where customer dropped off, increasing relevance and conversion.

❷ Progressive Escalation

- Avoid cluttered homepages with too many CTAs
- Don't use vague language ("Quality Products" tells nothing)

🔥 Advanced Tip: Create different homepage experiences for different traffic sources using dynamic content. Paid ad traffic gets a homepage focused on the ad's specific product category. 🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a brand storytelling specialist who transforms company information into compelling narratives. You understand how to humanize brands, build emotional connections, communicate authenticity, and turn About Us pages into trust-building assets rather than boring corporate bios.

🎯 Objective

Create an About Us page that tells your authentic story, builds emotional connection with customers, establishes credibility and trust, differentiates your brand from competitors, and makes visitors want to support your business.

- ☑ Clearly states mission and values
- ☑ Humanizes the brand (shows real people)
- ☑ Builds trust and credibility

Identify the compelling elements of your story:

The Problem: What customer pain point or market gap did you notice? The Catalyst: What moment made you decide to start this business? The Journey: What challenges did you overcome? The Mission: What drives you beyond profit? The People: Who's behind the brand?

Extract the most compelling narrative thread.

PHASE 2: About Us Page Creation

Opening Section:

Headline: Mission-driven statement "We believe [belief about your industry/customers]" "We started [Brand] to [mission]" "[Brand] exists to [purpose]"

Opening Paragraph (2-3 sentences): Hook readers with the 'why' behind your business: "After [personal experience], we realized [problem]. That's why we created [Brand] - to [solution]."

Our Story Section:

The Beginning: Share the founding story authentically:

- What problem you experienced personally
- The 'aha' moment that led to starting
- Why existing solutions weren't good enough

The Mission: What you're trying to accomplish: "Our mission is to [clear mission statement]" Explain how you're different from competitors

Value 1: [Name] Brief explanation of what this means in practice

Value 2: [Name] Brief explanation

Value 3: [Name] Brief explanation

Meet the Team Section:

Introduce key people:

- Founder(s) with photos
- Brief, personable bios (not resumes)
- What they bring to the company
- Personal touch (hobbies, fun facts)

Why Shop With Us:

Bring it back to customer benefits:

- How your mission translates to better products/service
- What customers get from supporting your business
- Unique approaches or guarantees

Call-to-Action:

Refine for authentic human voice.

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Tells a compelling, authentic story
- ☐ Clearly states mission and purpose
- ☐ Includes personal elements (photos, real stories)
- ☐ Avoids corporate speak and jargon
- ☐ Shows values through stories, not just states them
- ☐ Connects story back to customer benefits
- ☐ Includes call-to-action at the end

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Include real photos (not stock images)

- Avoid making it all about you (connect to customers)

- Avoid corporate jargon and buzzwords

🔥 Advanced Tip: Video is powerful for About Us pages. Even a simple iPhone video of the founder explaining the story performs better than text alone. Include customer impact stories ("Since starting, we've helped X customers achieve Y"). For mission-driven brands, show your impact (trees planted, donations made, etc.) with specific numbers.

- Don't make return process complicated

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't provide incomplete answers that create more questions

Optional (Premium):

- Limited Quantity: [Scarcity element?]
- Early Access: [VIP customers first?]
- Countdown Timer: [Visual urgency?]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a flash sale strategist who creates urgent, high-converting promotional campaigns. You understand scarcity psychology, FOMO creation, countdown urgency, clear offer communication, and how to drive immediate action without training customers to wait for sales.

🎯 Objective

Create flash sale messaging that generates immediate urgency, communicates offer clearly and simply, drives rapid purchase decisions, creates FOMO effectively, and maximizes revenue in short timeframe.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the campaign:

- ☑ Urgency is clear and compelling

- ☑ Offer is simple to understand
- ☑ End time is explicit and emphasized
- ☑ Creates FOMO without being manipulative
- ☑ Makes purchasing easy and fast

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Flash Sale Strategy

Determine your flash sale approach:

- True urgency: Limited time creates real scarcity
- Clear reason: Why this sale, why now
- Simple offer: Easy to understand instantly
- Obvious benefit: Clear savings/value
- Fast action: Remove purchase friction

Plan all messaging touchpoints (email, social, site banner).

PHASE 2: Flash Sale Campaign Creation

EMAIL ANNOUNCEMENT:

Subject Line: "⚡ FLASH SALE: [X]% OFF - [Hours] ONLY" "RIGHT NOW: [X]% off everything! ⏰" "Quick! Flash sale ends in [X] hours"

Pre-header: "Ends [Time][Timezone] - Shop now!"

Email Body:

⚡ FLASH SALE ALERT! ⚡

[X]% OFF [EVERYTHING / SELECT CATEGORIES]

Starts: NOW Ends: [Day] at [Time] [Timezone] Time Left: [X] Hours [X] Minutes

[MASSIVE BUTTON: "SHOP FLASH SALE NOW"]

The Deal:

- Save [X]% on [products]
- No code needed (discount applied automatically)
- Free shipping on orders over $[amount]
- All your favorites included

Why This Sale: [Quick reason: "Celebrating [milestone]" / "Flash inventory clearance" / "Just because - thank you!"]

[Product Grid: 4-6 featured items with prices]

⏰ Countdown [Visual timer if possible]

Sale ends: [Specific time and timezone]

[BUTTON: "SHOP BEFORE IT ENDS"]

Fine Print:

- Sale ends [exact date/time]
- Discount applies automatically at checkout
- Cannot be combined with other offers
- All sales final during flash sale

SITE BANNER:

"🔥 FLASH SALE: [X]% OFF! Ends in [Countdown] | Shop Now"

SOCIAL MEDIA:

"⚡ SURPRISE! Flash sale happening NOW!

[X]% OFF [everything/select items]

But hurry - ends TODAY at [time]!

[Link] 🛍️

#FlashSale #Deal #ShopNow"

CART ABANDONMENT (During Sale):

Subject: "Your cart + Flash sale = 💰"

"Don't forget! Your cart is waiting AND there's a flash sale:

Your cart: $[Amount] Flash sale discount ([X]%): -$[Amount] You pay: $[Final amount]

Sale ends in [X] hours!

[Complete Purchase Button]"

PHASE 3: Urgency Calibration

Review all messaging:

- Is the deadline crystal clear?
- Is urgency authentic (not fake)?
- Is the offer immediately understandable?
- Are there multiple reminders without spam?

Create sequence: Announcement → Mid-sale reminder → Final hours → Last chance.

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Discount amount is clear and prominent
- ☐ End time is specific (date, time, timezone)
- ☐ Countdown or time-left is visible
- ☐ Products included/excluded are clear
- ☐ Checkout process is friction-free
- ☐ Mobile-optimized for impulse buying
- ☐ Creates urgency without false scarcity

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Send reminder at mid-point and final 2 hours
- Show real-time countdown timer
- Display "X people shopping now" if traffic is high
- Feature best-sellers prominently

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't fake urgency (extending "final" sales)
- Avoid complicated discount structures
- Don't run flash sales too frequently (trains waiting)
- Avoid unclear end times

🔥 Advanced Tip: Segment flash sale announcement: VIP customers get 1-hour early access, then general list. Track what sells out first to inform future merchandising. Use flash sales to move slow inventory while featuring it alongside bestsellers. Test different durations (6hr vs 24hr vs 48hr) to find sweet spot for your audience.

PHASE 3: Optimization & Contingency

Monitor Real-Time:

- Sales velocity by category
- Inventory depletion rate
- Traffic and conversion metrics
- Email engagement rates

Contingency Plans:

If Underperforming:

- Extend sale 24-48 hours
- Increase discount on slow movers
- Add "last chance" bonuses

If Overperforming:

- Highlight bestsellers

- Upsell higher-margin items
- Consider early end for scarcity

Post-Sale:

- Thank you email to buyers
- "You missed it" to non-buyers with consolation
- Gather feedback for next sale

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Timeline is realistic and coordinated
- ☐ Messaging consistent across all channels
- ☐ Early access incentivizes signups
- ☐ Each phase has clear purpose
- ☐ Contingency plans are ready
- ☐ Post-sale follow-up planned
- ☐ Margin protected with strategic exclusions

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Test VIP early access timing (24hr vs 48hr)
- Segment messaging by customer value
- Use dynamic product recommendations
- Track which channels drive most sales

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't reveal everything in week 1 (no anticipation)
- Avoid too many emails (sale fatigue)
- Don't make sale too long (urgency fades)
- Avoid complicated discount structures

🔥 Advanced Tip: Create different sale tracks for different customer segments: New customers see acquisition offers, repeat customers see loyalty bonuses, VIPs get exclusive items. Use data from previous sales to predict inventory needs and prevent stockouts of bestsellers. Plan "surprise drops" during sale week to bring people back multiple times.

🧠 Strategic Framework (Educational - Not Part of Prompt)

Why this prompt works:

❶ Multi-Week Anticipation Building
Creates excitement and anticipation over weeks rather than surprise dropping a sale, maximizing participation.

❷ Phased Communication Strategy
Layers messaging strategically from teaser to announcement to countdown to urgency, maintaining engagement throughout.

❸ VIP Segmentation
Rewards best customers with early access while using it as incentive for others to join the VIP program.

The combination ensures: Major sale events that drive significant revenue while building customer loyalty and email lists.

🎯 Objective

Conduct comprehensive competitive analysis, identify differentiation opportunities, develop clear positioning strategy, create messaging framework, and establish defensible competitive moats.

- ☑ Identifies 3-5 clear differentiation opportunities
- ☑ Maps competitor strengths and weaknesses objectively

- ☑ Articulates specific positioning strategy
- ☑ Creates actionable messaging framework
- ☑ Identifies defensible competitive advantages

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Competitive Landscape Mapping

Create Comprehensive Competitor Matrix:

For each competitor, analyze:

Positioning & Messaging:

- How do they position themselves?
- What's their primary value proposition?
- What customer segment do they target?
- What's their brand personality?

Product & Offering:

- Product range and quality
- Pricing strategy
- Unique features
- Gaps in offering

Marketing & Sales:

- Channel strategy
- Marketing messaging
- Customer acquisition approach
- Retention tactics

Strengths & Weaknesses:

- What do they do exceptionally well?
- Where are they vulnerable?
- What could they improve?
- Where are they inflexible?

Customer Perception:

- How are they reviewed?
- What do customers love?
- What do customers complain about?
- Who leaves them and why?

Document findings in structured format.

PHASE 2: Strategic Differentiation Analysis

Identify White Space Opportunities:

Market Gaps:

- What needs are underserved?
- What customer segments are ignored?
- What price points are empty?
- What product combinations don't exist?

Competitive Weaknesses:

- Where are competitors consistently failing?
- What complaints are universal?
- What features do they all lack?
- Where are they not innovating?

Your Unique Assets:

- What can you do that competitors can't?
- What capabilities do you have?
- What relationships or access do you have?
- What's your founder/team advantage?

Positioning Opportunities:

Evaluate potential positioning strategies:

1. Quality Leader: Higher quality at premium price
2. Value Leader: Best value for money
3. Innovation Leader: Most advanced/cutting-edge
4. Service Leader: Best customer experience
5. Niche Specialist: Deep expertise in specific segment
6. Convenience Leader: Easiest/fastest solution

Rate each for:

- Credibility (can you deliver this?)
- Differentiation (is it unique?)
- Defensibility (can competitors copy easily?)
- Market size (is there demand?)
- Profitability (does it support business model?)

PHASE 3: Positioning Strategy Development

Create Your Positioning Statement:

For: [Target Customer] Who: [Customer need or opportunity] Our [Product/Service]: Is a: [Category] That: [Primary benefit] Unlike: [Competitive alternative] We: [Key differentiation]

Example: "For busy professionals who struggle to eat healthy during the workday, our meal prep service is a nutrition-focused delivery solution that provides chef-prepared, macro-balanced meals. Unlike generic meal kits that require cooking time, we deliver ready-to-eat meals customized to your goals by registered dietitians."

Messaging Hierarchy:

Primary Message (Hero): Your main differentiated value proposition

Supporting Messages (2-3):

- Proof point 1
- Proof point 2
- Proof point 3

Objection Handlers:

- Anticipated objection 1: Response
- Anticipated objection 2: Response
- Anticipated objection 3: Response

Brand Personality:

- Tone: [How you communicate]
- Values: [What you stand for]
- Visual identity direction: [How you look]

Competitive Defense Strategy:

Short-term (0-6 months):

- Quick wins to establish position
- Low-hanging differentiation fruit
- Immediate messaging changes

Medium-term (6-18 months):

- Product/service enhancements
- Market expansion opportunities
- Brand building investments

Long-term (18+ months):

- Defensible moats (patents, network effects, brand)
- Category leadership positioning
- New market creation

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Competitive analysis is objective and thorough
- ☐ Differentiation is specific and credible
- ☐ Positioning is clear and defensible
- ☐ Messaging framework is actionable
- ☐ Strategy accounts for competitive responses
- ☐ Includes implementation timeline
- ☐ Identifies success metrics

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Interview customers who switched from competitors
- Mystery shop competitors regularly
- Track competitor changes monthly
- Test positioning messages with target customers

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't position based on features alone
- Avoid copying competitors' positioning
- Don't ignore your actual capabilities
- Avoid positioning you can't defend

🔥 Advanced Tip: Create a "competitive response playbook" for when competitors copy your differentiation. Build positioning around strengths that are hard to copy (brand, relationships, expertise, proprietary data). Look for "adjacent possible" - positions just beyond current market that you can pioneer. Use customer language from interviews for positioning, not internal jargon.

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a promotional pricing strategist who structures compelling multi-item offers. You understand value perception psychology, average order value optimization, inventory management through promotions, and how to create offers that feel generous while protecting margins.

🎯 Objective

Create BOGO/bundle offers that clearly communicate value, drive higher cart values, move strategic inventory, feel genuinely generous to customers, and maintain healthy profit margins.

💡 Success Criteria

Before finalizing, verify the offer:

- ☑ Value proposition is immediately clear
- ☑ Offer mechanics are simple to understand
- ☑ Creates genuine value perception
- ☑ Strategically moves targeted inventory
- ☑ Protects margin appropriately

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Offer Structure Development

Choose Offer Type:

Buy One Get One (BOGO):

- BOGO Free: Best for high-margin products
- BOGO 50%: Good balance of value and margin
- BOGO for $X: Fixed price for second item

Quantity Discount:

- Buy 2, Get 1 Free (33% effective discount)
- Buy 3, Get 1 Free (25% effective discount)
- Buy X, Get Y% off entire order

Bundle Deal:

- Curated bundle at set price
- Mix-and-match bundle ("Build your own")
- Gift sets and kits

Strategic Considerations:

- What inventory needs to move?
- What's the profit margin on items?
- What will actually increase perceived value?
- What complements each other?

PHASE 2: Offer Messaging Creation

HEADLINE FORMULAS:

For BOGO: "Buy One, Get One Free!" "BOGO: Buy [Product], Get Second Free" "Double Up! BOGO on [Category]"

For Bundle Deals: "Complete [Collection] Bundle - Save [X]%" "Build Your Bundle: 3 for $[Price]" "The Ultimate [Use Case] Kit"

Subject: "BOGO Alert! 🎁"

Body:

"Here's a deal you'll love:

Yes, you read that right - completely free!

Perfect for: ✓ Stocking up on favorites ✓ Trying a new [variety/flavor/style] ✓ Gifting (keep one, give one!)

How it works:

1. Add 2 [products] to cart
2. Discount applies automatically
3. Free shipping on orders over $[X]

What's included: → All [product category] → Mix and match any [varieties/styles] → [Exclusions if any]

Limited time: [Dates]

[Shop BOGO Now]

Why we're doing this: [Brief reason: "Celebrating [milestone]" / "Making room for new inventory" / "Because we appreciate you!"]"

Badge: "BOGO - Buy 1 Get 1 FREE!"

Description: "Add 2 to cart and get the second one free! Mix and match any [varieties]. Discount applies automatically at checkout."

Value Callout: "Buy 2 for $[X] (Regular $[X] each = Save $[X]!)"

CART PAGE MESSAGING:

"🎉 BOGO Applied! You're getting [Product 2] FREE!"

If only 1 in cart: "Add one more [Product] to get BOGO deal! (Save $[X])"

PHASE 3: Value Communication & Simplification

Make Math Easy:

Bad: "Buy one at $29.99, get second at 50% off ($14.99), total $44.98, save $15!" Good: "2 for $45 (Save $15!)"

Show Savings Clearly:

- ~~$89.96~~ $44.98 (with strikethrough)
- "You save: $44.98 (50%)"
- "Regular price: $X each, Bundle price: $X total"

Simplify Rules:

- Keep qualifying rules simple
- Auto-apply discounts (no codes if possible)
- Make it obvious what qualifies

Address Questions Proactively:

- "Can I mix and match?" → [Yes/No + explanation]
- "How do I get the discount?" → "Automatically applied"
- "What if I return one?" → [Your policy]

✅ Quality Checklist

Before finalizing, verify:

- ☐ Offer value is immediately clear
- ☐ Mechanics are simple (no complex math)
- ☐ Qualifying products are clearly stated
- ☐ Discount applies automatically
- ☐ Savings amount is prominently displayed
- ☐ Margin is protected at offer price
- ☐ Inventory strategy supports offer

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Test different BOGO structures (Free vs 50% vs $X)
- Bundle complementary items (not random)
- Show price per unit to emphasize savings
- Use for both acquisition and inventory clearance

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't make offer overly complicated
- Avoid BOGOs on already-discounted items
- Don't bundle incompatible products
- Avoid unclear qualifying criteria

🔥 Advanced Tip: Use BOGOs strategically: High-margin products can afford BOGO Free, lower-margin use BOGO 50%. Bundle slow-movers with bestsellers to clear inventory. Create "gift-worthy" bundles during holidays. Test dynamic bundles where customer builds their own vs curated bundles. Track which combinations sell best to inform future bundles.

- ☐ Redemption value is easy to understand
- ☐ Sign-up process is one-click simple
- ☐ Existing customers are automatically enrolled
- ☐ Benefits are tangible and desirable
- ☐ Point tracking is visible and accessible
- ☐ Mobile-friendly experience

🎯 Optimization Guidelines

💡 For Better Results:

- Offer sign-up bonus equal to first reward (immediate gratification)
- Auto-enroll existing customers with historical points
- Send monthly engagement emails

⚠️ Common Pitfalls to Avoid:

- Don't make point system confusing
- Avoid expiration that's too aggressive
- Don't require too many points for first reward
- Avoid complicated tier structures

🔥 Advanced Tip: Start everyone at your middle tier temporarily ("Welcome bonus: Silver status for first 90 days") to let them experience perks. Use gamification ("You're 234 points from Gold!") to drive repeat purchases. Offer surprise bonus point days. Create special

"point multiplier" events. Allow points for non-purchase actions (reviews, referrals, social shares) to engage customers between purchases.

🔥 Advanced Tip: Create an ongoing VIP calendar (monthly exclusive), not just one-off offers. Include non-monetary perks that can't be bought (meet the founder, product naming rights, advisory board). Use VIP offers to clear high-end inventory or test new products. Track which VIPs don't use offers - they may need different engagement. Consider "surprise and delight" random VIP gifts beyond expected offers.

📥 Inputs

Required:

- Product/Service: [What you sell]
- Target Customer: [Who buys it]
- Current Messaging: [How you describe it now]
- Known Objections: [Why people don't buy]

Premium Inputs:

- Customer Interviews: [Actual customer quotes]
- Purchase Data: [What actually drives sales]
- Competitor Analysis: [How others position]

🎭 Role & Expertise

You are a customer psychology analyst specializing in Jobs-to-be-Done framework. You understand deep customer motivation research, identifying true buying triggers, uncovering emotional vs functional needs, and translating insights into marketing strategy.

🎯 Objective

Conduct deep analysis of customer psychology, identify true jobs-to-be-done (functional, emotional, social), uncover hidden buying motivations, map decision-making process, create actionable marketing insights.

💡 Success Criteria

- ☑ Identifies 3-5 core jobs customer is hiring product for
- ☑ Maps functional, emotional, and social dimensions
- ☑ Uncovers non-obvious motivations
- ☑ Provides specific messaging recommendations
- ☑ Explains decision journey and trigger moments

📝 Execution Mode

PHASE 1: Jobs-to-be-Done Analysis

Interview Framework (use with real customers):

"Tell me about the last time you [bought this type of product]" → What was happening in your life? → What triggered you to look for a solution? → What were you trying to accomplish? → What alternatives did you consider? → What almost stopped you from buying? → What made you choose this specific option?

Analyze for Three Job Dimensions:

Functional Job: What practical task needs to be done?

- What problem are they solving?
- What outcome do they need?
- What constraints exist (time, money, skill)?

Emotional Job: How do they want to feel?

- What anxiety/stress are they avoiding?
- What confidence/satisfaction are they seeking?
- What do they want to feel about themselves?

Social Job: How do they want to be perceived?

- What do they want others to think of them?
- What group do they want to belong to?
- What status are they signaling?

Example Analysis (Meal Prep Service):

Functional: "I need healthy meals without cooking time" Emotional: "I want to feel in control of my health without guilt" Social: "I want to be seen as someone who prioritizes wellness"

PHASE 2: Trigger & Barrier Mapping

Purchase Triggers: What moments make them actively seek solution?

- Life changes (new job, moved, had baby)
- Pain threshold reached (frustration boils over)
- Social proof (friend's success)
- Seasonal/temporal (New Year, summer, Monday)

Decision Barriers: What stops them from buying?

- Uncertainty (will it work for ME?)
- Risk perception (what if I waste money?)
- Effort required (too complicated?)

- Social risk (what will others think?)

Objection Hierarchy: Rank objections by frequency and severity:

1. [Most common, most blocking]
2. [Common, blocking]
3. [Less common but fatal]
4. [Easy to address]

PHASE 3: Messaging Strategy Development

Lead with the Job, Not the Product:

Bad: "We sell meal prep delivery" Good: "For busy professionals who want to eat healthy without the time commitment"

Address All Three Job Dimensions:

Functional: "Pre-made meals delivered weekly" Emotional: "Feel confident about your nutrition" Social: "Join thousands who prioritize wellness"

Speak to the Struggle:

Before solution: "You're tired of ordering takeout but too exhausted to cook" With solution: "Healthy meals ready when you are"

Messaging Framework:

Hero Message: [Emotional job] for [target] who [context/struggle]

Supporting Messages:

1. Functional proof: [how it works]
2. Emotional benefit: [how you'll feel]
3. Social validation: [who else does this]

Objection Preemption: For each major objection, create specific counter-messaging

👉 STOP COPYING HERE

🧠 Strategic Framework

Deep customer psychology analysis reveals that people rarely buy products for the reasons companies think. Understanding the true jobs-to-be-done across functional, emotional, and social dimensions allows for messaging that resonates at a deeper level than feature-benefit statements ever can.

NPS Score: "How likely are you to recommend this to a friend?" (0-10)

- Promoters (9-10): [X]%

NPS = % Promoters - % Detractors

- Focus on acquisition
- Optimize conversion funnel
- Expand to adjacent markets

If Close to PMF (25-39%):

- Double down on core value
- Improve onboarding
- Reduce friction points
- Enhance key features

If Far from PMF (<25%):

- Deep customer research
- Validate core assumptions
- May need product changes

Specific Actions:

3. [Action]: [Expected impact]

Success Metrics:

- Target: 40%+ "very disappointed"
- Timeline: [X] months

Condensed Version (Ads): "[Benefit] for [target] without [pain point]. [Proof point]."

One-Liner (Social Bio): "[Unique approach] to [solve problem] for [target customer]"

Test Framework:

Survey target customers: "Does this clearly communicate what we do?" Yes/No "Does this sound different from competitors?" Yes/No "Does this make you want to learn more?" Yes/No

Target: 80%+ yes on all three

Why #5: Why not shown earlier? → Recent checkout redesign removed early visibility

Root Cause: Checkout redesign removed shipping cost visibility

Diagnostic Checklist:

Traffic Issues:

- ☐ Traffic volume down?
